

Mira Kahn

Mira Kahn is the Associate Director, Health at Social Impact Exchange. In this role, she will support the Health Affinity Group with the goal of advancing equitable systems change.

Prior to joining SIE, Mira worked for the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists managing 2 multi-year federal grants: the Building COVID-19 Vaccine Confidence project and IPROTECT: Improving Pregnancy Outcomes Through Training, Education, and Collaboration. These initiatives have the goal to educate all obstetric care clinicians on obstetric infections and the safety and efficacy of vaccines during pregnancy.

Mira's work experience also includes grantmaking on the Health team at the Boston Foundation supporting a portfolio of 15 nonprofit partners all working to improve the health of Boston residents and creating workplace wellness programs for Cigna's small business clients.

Mira received her Master of Public Health from George Washington University, her BA in French and BS in Kinesiology from the University of Maryland.
